President Names Vermont Man for Place When Warren Declines Recess Appt.

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The controversy between President Coolidge and the senate over the attorney generalship ended abruptly today with the nomination of John G. Sargent of Vermont for the post and his prompt confirmation by the senate.

Mr. Sargent, former attorney general of Vermont and close friend of the president was selected after Charles B. Warren of Michigan, had declined to accept an offer of a recess appointment. Immediately upon receipt of the nomination, the senate moved swiftly to dispose of it.

Chairman Cummins of the judiciary committee took the unusual course of laying the appointment before the body in open session and then called a meeting of his committee to act upon it.

DELAYED HOUSE BILLS GO INTO THE DISCARD

(Associated Press)

AUSTIN, March 17.—Taps for pending House bills that had not successfully reached the three hurdles necessary to send them to the senate for final consideration, sounded tonight, when adjournment was ordered for 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. By the rules of the house as extended yesterday, consideration of any bill on second reading was prohibited after 6:30 today. Tomorrow will be devoted to senate bills on final reading.

This is the third day from the end of the Thirty-ninth legislature's regular session, and it has been a busy one. Members vied with each other to obtain the coveted recognition of Speaker Satterwhite to call from the table some pet bit of legislation.

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The nomination today by President Coolidge of Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, now American minister at Peking, as ambassador to Germany and his prompt confirmation by the senate, completed the readjustment of major diplomatic assignments in Europe.

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 17—Former owners of the minority stock in the Ford Motor company have been arbitrarily assessed a total of approximately $28,500,000 by the treasury as income tax alleged to be due on profits made by the stockholders when they disposed of their interests to Henry Ford in 1919.

Chief among these is the $10,000,000 assessment made against Senator Couzens and which stirred up a row in the senate last Friday.

DALLAS, March 17—C. H. Vaughn, a grocer, was forced by a negro robber to back into a rear room of his store last night, he told the police. He reached for a long handled shovel, made a swing at the negro who hastily beat a retreat. As the negro passed the cash register he grabbed it and as he left the store on the run had it under his arm. It was found in a vacant lot later in the night but the $40 it had contained was gone.

MODERN BORGIAS WORK IN CHICAGO

Faiman Declares He Supplied Typhoid Cultures to Administer to McClintock

(Associated Press)

CHICAGO, March 17.—True bills charging both Wiliam D. Shepherd and C. C. Faiman, proprietor of a local school of bacteriology with having caused the death of William Nelson McClintock by typhoid fever are confidently expected said Robert E. Crowe, State's attorney, upon reaching the office after an all night investigation of the case.

Mr. Crowe said he expected the indictments to be returned tomorrow morning before Jacob H. Hopkins, chief justice of the criminal court. Pending before Judge Hopkins is a petition for habeas corpus returnable at 2 p. m. tomorrow, at which time Mr. Shepherd must be released under an agreement between counsel unless meanwhile he had been formally accused.

Mr. Shepherd will not be taken before the grand jury, said Mr. Crowe.

Faiman was the first witness before the grand jury. Three minutes after he entered the chamber, Assistant State's Attorney Joseph Savage emerged and said that Faiman had signed a waiver of immunity and was prepared to tell his whole story to the grand jurors.

Judge Harry Olson was waiting to testify next.

Typhoid germs which killed William Nelson McClintock, "millionaire orphan" were given William Darling Shepherd, foster father and chief heir, upon his promise to pay $100,000 after settlement of the estate, C. C. Faiman, head of a school of bacteriology, told Robert E. Crowe, State's attorney today.

Approximately a dozen conferences were recounted in Faiman's statment and brought his association with Shepherd up to a time after McClintock's death when, Faiman said, Shepherd said he was going away for a short rest to return soon.

Faiman's statement did not incriminate Shepherd in the actual manner of administering the germs but said the school head had coached Shepherd along that line, informing him that bacilli best could be given in cold water.

Faiman's statement as announced by the State's attorney, said Shepherd kept alive the germs in three test tubes he received originally for a period of four or five months, transferring them twice.

The announced statement contained a question by Joseph Savage assistant State's attorney as to whether Faiman realized the criminal aspect from his own standpoint and his reply was that he did.

Inoculation of young McClintock with tuberculosis germs was discussed but abandoned. Faiman said, because the disease would develop too slowly. Diphtheria inoculation was abandoned, Faiman said, because it perhaps would not work satisfactorily in an adult.

After typhoid fever was well developed in young McClintock, Faiman said, Shepherd was anxious because a doctor had been called in. However, Faiman said, he reassured Shepherd by telling him that should the physician administer vaccine that it would not counteract the bacilli if the case was fairly well developed.

Faiman said he told Shepherd about the course of typhoid fever taken by different patients.

At a meeting in a downtown hotel in September, 1924, Faiman's statement said "we discussed the methods of administering the typhoid cultures. We also talked about Billy and Shepherd said it was about time he made his will, and also about time to dispose of him. He said it was up to him entirely as to how the will was made and that $1,000,000 was involved.

"I asked him about his cultures and he said they were right. I told to be careful not to infect himself."

Shepherd said that he would take care of Miss Isabelle Pope, the youth's fiancee, said Faiman, "because he just thought it would be best."

"Did he ever mention how the witness signed the will, or if undue influence was used to make McClintock sign?" Faiman was asked.

"He told me that whatever he said would be all right," the doctor answered.

He next saw Shepherd in November, 1924. Faiman said "when he came to my office and told me the big proposition was in progress."

It was at that time, Faiman said that Shepherd searched through the school letter files and regained a letter he had written regarding a course of study there.

When Shepherd took the letter, Faiman said, he began to speculate on just where he "came in."

"I was figuring on the whole proposition falling through and I wanted something," Faiman was quoted.

Shepherd told him the whole plan was working out all right, and that Faiman should not worry the teacher said.

Asked what he wanted, Faiman said he realized he was entitled to a fourth of the whole deal.

"He laughed and said 'quit your kidding.'" Faiman said.

"I cannot afford to take a chance for less," replied Faiman. "I have $30,000 sunk in the school"

After a bit of quibbling, they decided the "success of the proposition was worth $100,000 to Faiman, he said.

Young McClintock died on December 4, 1924. After Christmas Shepherd telephoned Faiman the latter said "things were getting hot." Inquiries were being made into the death of the youth and stories were going about. Faiman said he again eased Shepherd's fears.

Faiman said his school received numerous telephone calls in which he was warned to "mind his own business."

A letter apparently written by a woman also admonished him to "mind his own business."

Faiman was present under guard when his statement was read by a shorthand reported to three assistant State's attorneys and the newspapermen.

He grinned at times, particularly at the mention of the money he asserted Shepherd had agreed to give to him.

After the reading, Faiman was taken to a restaurant and later was permitted to rest.

CHICAGO, March 17.—The National University of Sciences here, the head of which, Charles C. Faiman, has told State's Attorneys that he gave William D. Shepherd typhoid germs to administer to William McClintock, "millionaire orphan" was charged today by John W. Follmer, chief inspector of the State department of education with being a "diploma mill."

It was once a rteognized second class school and was chartered in 1911 but had become bankrupt. Faiman, who was said by attaches of the school to be a graduate of the University of Missouri and also had attended the University of Minnesota, was said to have acquired the institution in an auction two years ago.

According to Follmer, many of its courses were mail order courses advertised extensively in the New York rural districts. Law, divinity, medicine, embalming, languages, chiropody and other courses were offered in its literature, as well as bacteriology and pathology.

Listed on its staff were fifteen faculty members, all with various degrees although the school occupied only an old mansion two and one half stories high in a residential section.

It students Follmer said, were either gullible country people or quacks who wanted numerous diplomas to hang on their walls to impress patrons.

LANGHORNE TOLD COURT 'I DID IT'

Defense Surprised When State Closed After Examining Ten Witnesses

(Associated Press)

LAGRANGE, March 17.—The State closed its case in the trial against William H. Langhorne, Jr., here today after ten witnesses were placed on the stand.

This sudden turn left the defense attorneys apparently stranded. They had expected the State to place Minnie Zapalac on the stand in the trial of the wealthy Chappell Hill youth, connected with the death of Valeria Zapalac and a criminal assalt on her sister, Minnie, 15, near here on February 14.

The defendant interrupted the reading of the indictment this afternoon by facing Judge Jefferies and declaring:

"I did it."

The court ordered a plea of not guilty entered for the defendant on account of the defense insanity plea.

Following the introduction of young Langhorne's alleged confession, admitting the murder and assault, the witnesses' testimony was introduced.

Defense attorneys and spectators were plainly surprised when the State failed to introduce Minnie Zapalac, now in a local hospital.

Ethel Cox was the first witness and she testified she saw the defendant leave a basketball game with the Zapalac sisters. He displayed no peculiar actions, she said.

Ludwig Baca and Louis Stavena testified they were the first to see the body of the dead girl on the bridge where the tragedy took place. They reported the discovery at Fayette ville and then returned for it and took it to Fayetteville, they said.

Whether the senate shall resolve itself into a court at that hour is to be decided by the body tomorrow morning, he said. The committee resolution is a substitute for the resolution introduced by Senators Fairchilo and Moore of Cooke, but in the main is the same as the original resolution, with the time and date changed, Fairchild said.

Fairchild said there would be a majority favorable report but no minority report.

HALF HUNDRED IN MINE EXPLOSION

Cause of Blast and Fate of the Men Cannot Yet Be Determined

(Associated Press)

FAIRMONT, W. Va., March 17. Forty or fifty men are reported entombed in mine shaft No. 7, of the Bethlehem Mines Corporation, following an explosion in the shaft about 9:30 tonight.

One fan in the workings was reported running, and it is believed by some company officials that the men in the shaft may be alive.

Rescue parties have been formed to go into the mine, and State and county police are on duty at the property in large numbers. Scores of men are working in an effort to reach the entombed miners.

First reports of the explosion were meager and no one apparently knew its nature. It is said it may have been caused by a blast of dynamite or powder or due to gas in the mine.

Officials of the Bethlehem company stated soon after the explosion that indications were that fifty or more men entombed may not have been killed by the explosion which took place at the bottom of the shaft.

That some or all of the men are alive is indicated by the fact that signals were heard according to members of rescue parties.

BOY'S LIFE SAVED BY THICK MATTRESSES

(Associated Press)

WACO, March 17.—Three thick mattresses saved the life of Donald Fricke son of Charles Fricke, farmer of the Ross community, about 11 miles northeast of Waco, when a dynamite charge was set off under the bed in which he was sleeping about 6 o'clock this morning. A five room house in which he was sleeping was wrecked.

Malice appears to have been the motive for the attempted assassination. The father and mother of young Fricke had been called to Burlington on the ruse that an uncle living at that place was sick at the point of death. Young Fricke was not badly hurt. He was removed to a sanitarium at Waco.

WHEAT CRASH IN THE CHICAGO PIT

Decline Started Monday Kept Its Course Tuesday in a Spectacular Way

(Associated Press)

WINNIPEG, March 17—With a crash which sent the wheat market into a State of complete disorganization today, prices dropped 13½ cents within ten minutes. May went down to $1.59 on the extreme bulge, while July underwent even a more serious loss, slumping 14¼ cents.

CHICAGO, March 17—So wild were the fluctuations in wheat prices that trades at the same moment in different parts of the pit were as much as 6 cents apart. May wheat in the first dealings ranged from 1.54 to 1.60.

A big drop in quotations at Liverpool over night had preceded the collapse here and had contributed to the acute weakness of prices. A semi-panic in the Chicago wheat trade yesterday on account of a temporary stoppage of buying was also a depressing factor.

At the worst of the earlier slashes in price today, the wheat market showed more than 35 cents a bushel loss as against the high point last week and 52 cents loss compared with $2.05 7-8, the top record on January 28. Simultaneously, May corn was down today about 16c from last week's top figures.

Behind the successive rushes to sell wheat were reports which were current that instead of a world scarcity of breadstuff which lately was feared and when led to widespread speculative buying, the arrivals of wheat in Europe for the next two months or longer promised to average as much as 16,000,000 bushels weekly and that huge supplies were already on hand at Liverpool as well as afloat on ocean passage. There were also reports that actual immediate demand for wheat across the Atlantic was small except that continental countries had so far been absorbing the cargoes which had arrived.

The market fluctuated wildly, falling as low as 1.51 and then rising to 1.57, with another setback near the end of the day. Export buying here and bullish crop advices from Kansas and from India failed to uphold rallies. The close was unsettled at 5 to 12 cents net decline, May 1.52 to 1.53½ and July 1.39 to 1.39¼.

Light receipts of corn tended to steady prices for corn and oats in he later dealings. Corn closed nervous at 2⅛ to 3 cents decline, May 1.16 to 1.16¼.

AUSTIN SELECTED ODD FELLOW MEET

Grand Lodge Goes to Capital City by Invitation from the Lodge There

(Associated Press)

WICHITA FALLS, March 17—Austin was selected for the 1926 annual session of the grand lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows at the executive session of the grand lodge here Tuesday morning. Invitations were issued by delegations from Austin and Mineral Wells for the entertainment of the next session of the grand lodge. The meeting will be held in March, 1926, the dates will be set later. Austin was voted the place of the next meeting by a large majority.

E. O. Vestal, grand secretary, reported Tuesday noon that the order now boasts more than 670 subordinate lodges in the State of Texas, 70 encampments and 22 cantons. More than 50,000 Odd Fellows are affiliated with Texas lodges, the grand secretary reported. The lodges are located in 670 Texas cities and delegates from practically every lodge of the State have registered at the convention.

The Texas Rebekah assembly has more than 350 lodges in as many cities in the State and more than 21,000 Rebekahs live in Texas.

Plans for the erection of an I. O. O. F. home for old folks are being discussed, but officers of the grand lodge declared Tuesday that final decision in the matter would be left to the board of trustees of the grand lodge, who would meet in a few weeks to discuss the matter.

Ennis, Texas, has a large delegation present and is making an effort to secure the new home should it be established. The order now maintains a widows and orphans home at Corsicana.

EIGHT MEN SELECTED ON THE COLLIER JURY

(Associated Press)

WICHITA FALLS, March 17—Eight of the 12 men who will decide the penalty, if any, to be exacted from Frank Collier for the murder of Elzie Logan Robertson, have been selected by the State and defense.

Sailing through the tedious task of examination in a manner much smoother than on Monday, the attorneys on both sides brought the trial to a point Tuesday night where it is virtually assured that introduction of evidence can be started sometime tomorrow.

Nearly 100 names were included in the list in the hands of the court deputy. In the light of today's unexpected accomplishment, there is no reason to believe that the last four men needed to complete the panel cannot be found Wednesday. As jury selection starts again at 9 o'clock in the morning, there is every indication that the twelfth man can be found before noon and in that event it is probable the first testimony may be taken tomorrow afternoon.

Contesting attorneys said that with all witnesses on hand they can start offering evidence at once.

FALL SON-IN-LAW PUT ON THE STAND

Court Rules He Must Tell What He Knows Concerning the Deals in Bonds

(Associated Press)

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 17.—Conversations leading to the recounsel for Harry F. Sinclair, of ceiving by Col. J. W. Zevely, $25,000 in Liberty bonds which the government charges ultimately found their way into the hands of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior were related in the deposition of G. B. Wahlberg, former private secretary to the oil magnate, read into the records of the Teapot Dome suit today.

Sinclair on the eve of his departure to Eurone in June, 1923 told Wahlberg that "Zevely might need some money" and to let him have it in Liberty bonds, the deposition stated.

Later he gave Zevely $25,000 in first 3½ per cent Liberty bonds, Wahlberg testified.

Ruling that M. T. Everhart, banker and rancher of Pueblo, Colo., and son in law of Albert B. Fall, must testify as to an alleged deposit he made of Liberty bonds in behalf of the former secretary of the Interior, Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy today permitted the government to proceed in its attempt to prove a financial liason between Fall and Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of the big Wyoming oil reserve.

Everhart yesterday refused to answer the question on the ground that to do so might cause him to incriminate himself.

Judge Kennedy's decision held, in effect, that the actions of the witness indicated that he was refusing to give testimony in order to protect "a third party."

Everhart took the witness stand and read a prepared statement giving his reasons for declining to testify and citing the government's charge of conspiracy in the Teapot case and further the indictment of Sinclair and Fall in Washington as a result of a grand jury investigation of the Teapot lease.

The statement declared that inasmuch as both indictments and government charges in the civil suit hinged upon an alleged passsage of bonds between Fall and Sinclair and that the question propounded to him dealt with an alleged deposit of bonds in the Pueblo bank in behalf of Fall the situation presented a case wherein he might incriminate himself should he answer.

A. S. Booth, vice president of the First National bank of Pueblo and secretary-treasurer of M. D. Thatcher Estate company of Pueblo who followed Everhart to the stand told of a transaction with M. T. Everhart on May 29, 1922, involving $140,000 worth of Liberty bonds.

Booth produced records of the transaction over the objection by defense counsel.

"An examination of the circumstances and questions propounded (to Everhart) led this court to the conclusion that up to the present time ther has been disclosed no evidence of danger to the witness," said Judge Kennedy's ruling on Everhart's testimony.

Judge Kennedy said he would give the witness the privilege of making further explanation of his right to "claim the privilege as he may be advised or in the absence of which will be directed to answer the questions propounded."

OIL MAN ASSERTS DAY OF LOW PRICE GAS PAST

(Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 17.—An advance in the price of crude oil was forecast by W. H. Gray, president of the Tribes Gasoline company of Tulsa, Okla., in an address before the annual convention of the American Oil Men's association here today.

Cheap gasoline is a thing of the past, J. M. Carson, Chicago, general sale smanager of the Cosden Sales Corporation of Chicago and Tulsa told the oil men.

"There will be no more low priced gas," he said "and unless a new field is discovered by July 1, I expect to see the price advanced."

Mr. Carson said that oil companies have lost millions of dollars in the last three years. His company he asserted, lost more than $3,000,000. Oil wells, he said, are rapidly going dry.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Reports that Tauneo Massudiara, the new Japanese ambassador to Washington, had received instructions before leaving Tokio to reopen the immigration question upon his arrival here, were denied this morning by the envoy himself.

His instructions, the ambassador said, were purely of a general character designed to promote friendship betwen the two governments.

He added, however, that although the immigration question was regarded in the United States as settled forever, hope still was entertained in Japan that at some future date the problem might be taken up again and another solution found acceptable to both Tokio and Washington.

FILIBUSTER OVER LOCATION OF PEN

Friends of the Measure Succeed in Having it Passed to Engrossment

(Associated Press)

AUSTIN, March 17.—After an all-day filibuster against the Teer prison relocation bill, fraught with many parliamentary tangles, the senate late today finally decided to engross the measure by a vote of 15 to 6. Eight members paired.

It will be brought up for final action tomorrow.

Senator Bowers spoke all afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock and ending at 6 in the evening, after he had consumed a quantity of milk, soft drinks and sandwiches.

The filibuster started at 9:30 this morning when Senator Fairchild raised a point of order that a house bill could not be taken up on senate bill day. From then on it was nip and tuck, with dozens of points of order and endless wrangling over knotty parliamentary law.

Fairchild kept up the fight until noon when the senate voted down his point of order 21 to 10 and permitted him to proceed with the debate.

At one time, those favoring the measure had signed fifteen members agreeing to remain in session all night and tomorrow to force a vote. The bill had been passed by the house with a $500,000 appropriation, and must now go back to the house for action on the measure carrying the amendment to reduce the appropriation to $200,000.

MISS INFORMATION

MANY APPARENTLY 'OLD WOMEN' ARE YOUNG IN YEARS

Suffering and Pain Makes Them Look Old Before Their Time. Mysterious Malady is th eCause.

It is positively distressing to see the number of young women today who, at thirty, go about looking like they are at least forty. All the pain and suffering which they endure is reflected in their looks and you can easily tell when a woman or girl has failed to safeguard her health.

The discoverers of St. Joseph's G. F. P. believed that if they could find the dreaded malady which is preying on women, and provide a relief for it they would be able to end most of the pains in the back and sides, the headaches, nausea, loss of appetite and that awful feeling of depression; conditions which have made many women virtually slaves to suffering for so many years.

How well they succeeded by their years of patient effort is best told by the praises of the thousands of happy women whose enthusiasm over the wonderful changes that St. Joseph's G. F. P. has brought about in their condition knows no bounds.

Through the use of G. F. P. many thin, frail and nervous women are made strong, steady and happy again; young girls who formerly suffered from irregularity, pain sickness and embarrassment are made regular and relieved of pain; women are enabled to realize the wonderful blessings of motherhood with surprising ease, and women in later years pass through the change of life with so little difficulty as to scarcely realize that they have been through the remarkable transformaion. When women realize that this great change in their former condition is brought about by this phenomenal medicine, nothing can keep them from praising the wonderful St. Joseph's G. F. P.

Worry and depression over her failure to regain her health will "age" any woman prematurely. When the generative organs are freed from the catarrhal inflammation, which keps them weak, nervous and irritable, women quickly become miracles of restored vitality, with that cheerful and buoyant appearance of youth.

Over thirty years have passed since Vicks was first made in the back room of a little drug store in what was then a small North Carolina town.

During this time Vicks has so steadily increased in popularity and brought relief to so many people that now it is the most widely used remedy for cold troubles in the world. It is sold in 30 different countries and, in the United States alone, more than 17 million jars are used yearly.

Mothers with small children find Vicks especially valuable. It saves dosing delicate little stomachs with so much medicine. It usually checks colds overnight and relieves croup within 15 minutes.

Vicks is also used everywhere as an application for burns, cuts and bruises, for sores, sprains and itching skin troubles.

A GOOD NAME THE BEST ASSET—A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving favour rather than silver and gold. Proverbs 22:1.

THE PREFERENTIAL BALLOT

The effort by house and senate to enact a preferential ballot for the primaries in Texas should be successful. It would accomplish three things—eliminate the second primary; give a majority of the voters their choice in candidates; compel the voters to give more thought and consideration to their ballots.

All those things are worth while. The second primary is a needless expense to the candidates and a tax upon the voters.

The present primary law enables the organized minority, whether of one sort or another, in many cases to "put over" a candidate who is not the choice of the majority, divided among many candidates; thus thwarting the basic idea of the primary.

The preferential ballot requires that voters shall name their first and second choice where there are more than two candidates; if no candidate has a majority of all the votes cast then the number of the first and second choices are added together for each candidate and the candidate with the highest total is the party candidate.

The system is not so complicated as it sounds. It has been in use in Australia for many years; and in Texas the city of Houston has been using it with much satisfaction for the past ten years.

MAKE IT A REAL CLEAN UP DAY

Everything is set for a clean up of the winter's debris in the residence and the business section of Paris. It is up to the householders and the merchants to make of it a real clean up day to get rid of the trash and the accumulation of odds and ends.

It should not be forgotten that there are a considerable number of stables and chicken houses in the city limits; and they should have close attention. It is in them that the flies are bred—and flies are a niusance and a menace in many ways.

There is also the subject of the low places which go to making breeding places for mosquitoes, those carriers of malaria and of other diseases—and the roaches and the bugs of varied sort are to be borne in mind in this cleaning process

The rats and the mice should have their full share of attention for they are a source of constant waste and damage.

It is well to make of it a thorough cleaning, both wihin and without the house and thus save a lot of troule and annoyance for both yourself and your neighbor a little later in the year.

And after the cleaning new paint will help a lot.

BUILDING ACTIVITY IN PARIS

The renewal of activity in building in Paris will be hailed as an indication that we are beginning to share in the prosperity wave. Building activity is a sure index as to whether a city is growing, standing still or retrograding.

Paris has never been in the latter class; but we have stood still for quite a long time. Now that there is tangible evidence of renewed acvtivity, effort should be made along other lines to take full advantage of the impetus.

NEGRO FEDERAL PRISONER RELEASED ON BOND

James Stewart, a Paris negro, who was arrested here last week on a Federal warrant charging him with having stolen an auto in Los Angeles, Cal., and carrying it to Oklahoma and selling it, was released from jail Tuesday on a bond approved by United States Commissioner Jno. S. Stone to answer to the charge at the next term of the Federal court at Muskogee.

Who's Who In The News

Dr. Walther Simons

Germany's president ad interim, Dr. Walther Simons, has taken an active part in the political life of his country for many years and up to the time of his appointment as foreign minister in 1920 held many legislative and judicial appointments. His present post is head of the Leipsic federal court, an office correspond ing to that of William H. Taft, chief justice of the U. S. supreme court.

As foreign minister he took a leading part in the conference which led to the signing of the treaty of Versailles, he participated in the Spa conference in 1920 and was head of the German delegation to the London conference in March, 1921. Following the ultimatum of the allies after this conference he resigned his cabinet office and later became the German legal adviser on the Upper Silesian boundary commission.

Serving under the Centrist Chancellor Fehrenbach, he soon became the leading spirit in the new cabinet formed after the Red uprising in the Ruhr in May, 1920.

As foreign minister he sat with the German delegates at the meeting with allied representatives at Spa from July 5 to 16, 1920, when under threat of occupation of the Ruhr district the Germans agreed to disarmament and reduction of the army to 150,000 men by Oct. 1 and to 100,000 by January.

In March, 1921, he created a sensation throughout Germany and the allied countries by addressing an appeal to President Harding to act as mediator in the reparations question. The delivery of the note was timed so that in the event Harding did accept it, it would bring the United States into the reparations controversy before May 1, the date set by France to move her military forces into the Ruhr and other industrial regions of Germany.

The communication of Dr. Simons caused a tremendous outburst of feeling in Germany, and in some places almost precipitated clashes between different political factions.

Copying the actions of American politicians, Dr. Simons took a swing round Germany, visiting practically every important center in the republic, before he went to the London conference as head of the German delegation.

He resigned from the cabinet in May, 1921, following the allies ultimatum on reparations. He later became the German legal adviser on the Upper Silesian boundary commission and was appointed president of the supreme court in 1922.

Dr. Simons was born in 1861.

Andrew and Imogene

Roe Fulkerson

"I saw Emily Thorn on the street today," remarked Andrew. "She seems to be enjoying her alimony."

"There seems something horrid about a woman being happy on the money of a man she could not live with," said Imogene.

"I thought you sympathised with Emily," remarked Andrew.

"I did. But I can never bring myself to think that a woman ought to get alimony."

"Oh, Emily will marry, again," smiled Andrew.

"I do not see how a man can marry a woman who has a living husband," objected Imogene. "To me it would be like eating a steak off of a cow that was still alive and wandering around, suffering.

"Matrimony to me is as fatal as death. I married you with the expectation of staying married to you forever. When a woman gets a divorce from one man she is always liable to get another one or two before she is done with it. It gets to be a habit with her and she has no belief in the permanency of marriage. Besides, Andrew, I would never divorce you, no matter what you did."

"That's a relief," remarked Andrew with a sigh.

"No! I do not mean it that way," she went on. "A divorce seems to me a kind of cowardice. I would always feel that you imagined you had whipped me. I would stay and fight it out with you because to get a divorce is to acknowledge defeat. I would be too proud to get a divorce."

"But Emily is a nice, happy dispositioned little thing, and I thought when she was having her trouble with her husband you sympathised with her."

"Any married woman sympathises with any other married woman who is having trouble with her husband, Andrew, because a fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind.

"When a woman is in trouble, all other married women flock around her and advise her out of their own experience what is best for her to do. She is of them and they are for her in her hour of trouble.

"But the minute that woman gets a divorce their attitude turns a flip flop. She is then a pirate ship, cruising in matrimonial waters and a menace to every domestic ship. Men all say about her what you just said about Emily, that she is a sweet dispositioned, harmless little thing. Nothing so alarms a married woman as to hear that another woman is harmless. No married woman fears a bold and brazen woman. They never take a man by storm. It is the quiet little ones who cuddle up to them and ask their advice in a helpless sort of way that eventually takes him.

"Widows and divorcees are the nightmares of married women. They have a fascination for men which no single girl ever has. I wish you would not keep on meeting Emily on the street and coming home and telling me what a sweet and harmless little thing she is. She is nothing of the sort. She is a divorcee."

"But she is your friend," laughed Andrew.

"The only real friends a married woman has are other married women who like their husbands," sneered Imogene.

"You mean that you do not like divorcees, widows and young girls?"

"I hate them with a deep and deadly hatred," cried Imogene, viciously.

"Why, pray?"

"Because they have everything I haven't. They are young. They are beautiful, they are clever and I am getting to be an old woman. But that is not half the reason I hate them."

"What is the other half?"

"The other half is that all men are fools."

Why a Common Cup Should Be Put in Quarantine

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

It is good news to learn that a campaign will be made this year to do away with the common drinking cup. It has taken society a long time to realize the dangers of using a cup which is the common property of all the neighbors.

When I was a boy in school it was not unusual for one of the pupils to raise his hand and say "Teacher, please, may I pass the water?" The wooden bucket and tin dipper were passed from desk to desk and all who wanted to would drink from the cup.

I was on a train years ago and between stations, when the brakeman had nothing else to do, he "passed the water," just as they did in school.

Everything a child has in his hands gravitates to his mouth. This is the ultimate destination of pencil, ruler, eraser and fingers.

A few days ago I had a letter from a reader asking if it is dangerous to persons who come in contact with them for the nurse and parent to leave a house where there is contagious of infectious disease. The prevailing idea is that it is dangerous. Even the atmosphere about the sick person is popularly thought to be contaminated.

You will hardly believe me when I say that science has discarded these old-fashioned ideas of ours. The experts say, "disease is not carried by things." That is, the clothing, books furniture and other objects in the room do not become the lodging place of the germs of the disease.

The moist secretions especially of the nose and mouth, are the dangerous substances. In these teem the vital, aggressive, disease-producing germs.

It is plain as day why the common drinking cup should be eliminated. If somebody uses it who has infantile paralysis, typhoid fever, cancer or some other contagious disease, you can see that the saliva of the diseased person may cling to the edge of the cup, ready to be taken up by the one who next drinks from the cup.

I have seen ugly mouth sores and gums reeking with pus and worried about what might happen to other persons unless the patient exercised a care. Soda fountains and every other place where drinks are served should be operated under the strictest possible rules as to cleanliness.

It is a good campaign and I pray it may become shown to everybody that the common cup is an abomination.

The Wise Sayings of Mrs Solomon

By HELEN ROWLAND
THE MID-FORTIES

My daughter, dost thou yearn for an ardent lover?

Dost thou sigh for a kiss that is flavored with enthusiasm rather than with ennui and with sentiment rather than with audacity?

Then, I charge thee waste not thy time upon a youth whose years are at the spring, for his emotions are unripened.

But the heart of a man in the mid-forties is mellowed, and his wooing is as the first flush of Indian summer, exceding glowing!

Go to. Who is so old, who is so wise, who is so blase as a youth of twenty-two, that carryeth a pocket flask, driveth a racing car, and sporteth a coon skin coat?

Behold, he hath petted the flappers—and found them tiresome.

He hath dallied with chorus girls—and found them expensive.

He hath pursued a widow—and found her out.

All their blandishments leave him cold, and their wiles are as stimulating as canned soup.

Yea, he is SO world-weary!

For he hath written himself down "Cynic;" and, in his philosophy, all sentiment is obsolete, all love is biological, all women are "trappers," and all marriage is boredom!

But, a man in the mid-forties delighteth in a new romance as a small boy in a new game!

And a sentimental adventure is uno him as exciting as a dime novel.

Yea, his love-making is more convincing than a campaign speech—and headier than old wine!

For he still cherisheth his illusions but his egotism hath fallen from him. He still holdeth to his youthful ideals, and his cynicism hath departed with his waistline.

He still talketh of "mental companionship" and of "spirtual understanding"—but his kisses have not los their fervor, nor his caresses their enthusiasm.

He still believeth a woman's flatteries, and receiveth her praises with thankfulness. He is SO grateful!

He stil hath faith that God made women for Man's delight, and that to LOVE a woman is no sign of paresis!

Therefore, my Daughter, if thou seekest a THRILLING wooer, waste not thy days upon a calow youth. But set thine heart upon a man in the flush of Indian summer, year, even in the mid-forties!

For, verily, he is the last of his species—an Impressionable Man!

Discussion On World Topics

Women Needed in Public Office to Rotate Points of View, She Says.

Women are needed to bring "the home economics point of view" into state affairs and demonstrate the value to the public of the trained feminine mind, declares Mrs. Florence Smith Knapp, secretary of state of New York.

If you ask Mrs. Knapp how it feels to fill a man's shoes, she promptly will tell you that she isn't doing a man's job. "There are a great many jobs that belong to men, and can never be properly performed except by men, but the one I now am doing is not of that kind.

"I am not doing a man's work," she says. "I am performing the woman's duty to the state in the capacity where her gifts now seem most useful. I am heartily averse to sex solidarity. But a rotation in points of view is as vital in many fields of government as crop rotation on the farm. I am bringing the home economics point of view into state economics. Questions of state economics reduce, after all, to making both ends meet and getting the most for your money, just as the housewife's budget does.

"I don't mean by that to underrate the necessary steps in preparation to give a man or woman an intelligent grasp of this work. Circumstances largely have obliged me to qualify earlier than other women. Securing educational needs for county and state through legislation, for example, have brought my political dreams down to earth. There is no such gap between household and state economics as people who haven't tried both may believe."

Mrs. Knapp came to the office she now holds from the deanship of the school of home economics in Syracuse University.

Billy Whiskers

By Frances Trego Montgomery

Billy had just found out that the picnic lunch he was eating belonged to the moving picture people from he had escaped.

"Well, I'll be switched," said Billy to himself, "if I haven't run into the whole company," and in the twinkling of an eye he had turned and run down the opposite side of the knoll toward the stream. But horrors. What was he facing but all the men from the studio in their bathing suits coming up from their bath in the stream Dressed like this and fresh from a cold plunge, they were in fine trim to run and in less time than it takes to tell the whole lot of them started to chase Billy and they caught him before he had gotten fifty feet away.

They led him up to where the autos were and tied him to the one in which he always rode. Then they made doubly sure he could not get away from them by chewing his rope by putting a chain around his neck.

"Now, old fellow, I guess you won't escape from us," gloated Mr. Dates. "I should like to give you a good beating for the trouble you have given us."

"And so would I" added Mr. Benton.

As for Mr. Strobel, he shook his fist in Billy's face and said "We will work you hard and give you few favors for running away from us and causing us to lose so much time and money. But one thing now is that we have found you ourselves and that will save us giving the five hundred dollars reward to someone else."

This evidently made Mr. Strobel feel good, as he walked away rubbing his hands together.

For the rest of the day Billy lay behind the auto and chewed on bits of food they threw to him as they ate their luncheon. But at one time he really thought they would beat him and that was when Mrs. Strobel discovered that Billy had eaten the cake she had taken so much trouble to make.

At last the day came to an end, as all days will, and Billy was put in the limousine and driven to the studio stables, where he was not only locked in, but also fastened to a stall by a chain. And as Nick closed the door he said.

"Dar now, Master Billy, I hopes you sleeps well and have pleasant dreams, for they will be all the pleasant things that will be comin' your way for one while, I am thinkin'."

"Oh dear, oh dear! I wonder what awful tricks I shall have to go through. And I also wonder where Stubby and Button are, and if they are here or have escaped. I am almost certain they have made their escape and are miles away from here by now and probably looking for me."

"But we know that Billy's friends are at the studio too.)

On Saturday afternoon the junior department of Mrs. Corinne Dargan-Brooks' piano students and their mothers were present at the Central Presbyterian church for an unusually interesting program arranged by Mrs. Brooks.

Hymn tunes with special attention to phrasing and expression wer played by the pupils, and a playlet, "Handel" was given with this cast of characters to illustrate the historical and biographical items of interest about the great composer:

Father Handel—Margaret Billingsley.

Mother Handel—Mary Sue Hudson.

Little Handel—Marralene Lummus.

Grand Duke—Eleanor Scott.

Majordomo—Virginia Baxter.

Housemaid—Emma Louise Walker.

To illustrate part singing, Martha Floyd and Eleanor Scott sang a duet arrangement of Wilson's setting for "The Childhood of Hiawatha."

Two numbers by Mrs. Brooks, chosen from the interscholastic list for the music memory contest, "Poet and Peasant Overture" and "Gavotte" from "Mignon" were very much appreciated.

CLEAN UP DAY AN ALL PARIS EVENT

Crew of Men and Corps of Wagons Ready for Collection of Rubbish Today

Cleanup day is bound to be a success, with the prospects as encouraging as they looked to Mrs. S. B. M. Long, president of the Civic League who drove over the city yesterday afternoon, as the sacks and boxes of rubbish were being piled out on the sidewalks for the wagons to collect today.

Chief Harrell is overseeing the corps of fifty wagons and twice as many men who are collecting the piles of trash and taking them to the city dumping grounds, and the rounds begin at 7 o'clock today.

With this crew, it will be possible to finish the collection in a single day, and the city will be rid of its annual accumulation of tin cans, wornout utensils and other rubbish which are unsightly and unhealtay.

The colored people, who have organized a civic league the past year, have been very active in the cleanup work and are taking great pride in their share of the campaign.

The cleanup today will leave the city in proud possession of the name it has honestly won by effort of the Civic League, city government and the citizens of Paris, co-operating in their efforts to clean and beautify the city, and make it an attractive, healthy place to live in.

DEMONSTRATION TO WOMAN'S COUNCIL

Miss Thelma Barber of Clarksville Gave Instructions in Basketmaking

A most interesting meeting of the women's council of the Lamar home demonstration clubs of the county was held on Saturday evening in Miss Cooper's office, with a representative number of club presidents and a number of visitors in attendance.

The council is composed of the presidents of every home demonstration clubs in the county and monthly meetings for discussion of plans and business matters are held. Mrs. Roy Dunagan is chairman of the council and is very helpful member, for besides presiding at the meetings she helps the women with her suggestions from time to time.

Saturday was the day for regular meeting, and in addition to the usual routine business an interesting demonstration on basket making was given.

Miss Thelma Barber, county demonstration agent of Red River county, and Mrs. J. E. Lawson, her council chairman, were present and Miss Barber gave the demonstrations.

Three projects were made and valuable instructions on how to make many other beautiful and useful baskets for home use were given.

A very inexpensive, yet beautiful rustic basket is one made from sweetgum burrs and this basket as demonstrated by Miss Barber is easy to make and one that could find a welcome in any Lamar county farmhouse.

The burrs used in the basket came from the Springhill community, and Mrs. J. M. England, president of the Springhill Home Demonstration club, conceived a clever idea in announcing that she will see that any woman in the county who wants some of the burrs can get them from her, and at the same time the small revenue will aid in defraying the expenses of building the new club house.

Mrs. England is of the opinion that she has a good club at Springhill and she believes in boosting it.

The burrs should be brushed good to relieve them of any debris that may be present then boiled and drained. This leaves them in a soft condition and makes them easy to handle. They are then strung on wires the proper length and when tacked to the wood foundation and dried the burrs present a very artistic appearance.

Willow baskets are a little harder to make but when finished make a pretty and useful flower basket, or if desired, may be equipped with a wire hanger and used as a hanging basket. This was an interesting demonstration and a number of women are planning on making them in their clubs.

Long leaf pine needle baskets were the third of the projects and was one that created much interest. The needles, soaked in water, and raw raffia were the materials used in this demonstration. They can be made into many unique and useful designs and these were demonstrated by models made by Miss Barber.

The main subject for discussion in the business hour was the exhibit of the work done by Lamar club women, which will be shown at the district parent-teacher convention which convenes in Paris April 1, 2 and 3.

Mrs. Dunagan extended an invitation to all the club members to attend the convention, and urged them to co-operate with Miss Cooper in making the club women's exhibit one that they wil lbe proud of.

MARY JANE'S MERRY JOURNEYS IN THE ENCHANTED FOREST

The Trick the Didelphys Played on Mary Jane

"Well," said Mary Jane, "you certainly give yourself a funny name. Where I live you're called a 'possum."

ONE evening as Mary Jane was walking home through the Enchanted Forest she saw the fuzziest little animal with a wee one peeking out of its pouch, swinging by its tail from the tree just in front of her.

"Aren't you afraid of dropping your babies?" asked Mary Jane. "Oh! no," replied the fuzzy mother, "I am the Didelphys, and I always swing this way."

"Well, you certainly give yourself a funny name," said Mary Jane. "Where I live you are called a 'possum and I think you're playing 'possum with me right now."

Just as Mary Jane said this, the 'possum suddenly dropped and curled up on the path. Mary Jane ran over to see if she were hurt, but couldn't get a peep out of her. So she put down her lunch basket and ran to the little stream rippling by, for water to sprinkle on the poor little 'possum's face. But when Mary Jane got back no 'possum was to be seen!

Then she heard a wee voice in the tree overhead. "Ha, ha, Mary Jane, I fooled you that time—I certainly did play 'possum with you! I know you always have that delicious Mary Jane Syrup with you, and I was so hungry I took what you had left away with me in my pouch for me and my babies. Good-bye and thank you, Mary Jane."

Mary Jane knows how everybody enjoys the delicious flavor of MARY JANE SYRUP and was glad that the hungry little 'possum had been able to find something so good for herself and her family as is Mary Jane Syrup. So she picked up her empty basket and ran home in time for a supper of hot cornbread and MARY JANE SYRUP.

Legion Post Plans Ceremonies for Culbertson World War Memorial Figure

American Legion Notes Supplied by Commander Max Chapman.

We had the best meeting last Tuesday night we have had in many moons. You fellows who are not coming to these meetings are missing lots of fun, and some of the best Dutch lunches ever prepared. We had a battle royal, two sparring exibitions and a wrestling match. McCullough, Van Buurkleo and Weatherbee bought, and Parks and Mitchell prepared a wonderful lunch. This Mitchell-Parks combination is unbeatable and if every post had such excellent caterers the membership would increase many times over. Surely every member of this post thanks the above named men for their contribution to a very successful evening.

This post wants some good angel to donate a lot that we may build a home on. We would of course prefer a lot rather close in. And on or close to a paved street and the street car line. However, we would entertain the proffer of anything in Lamar county, so if you have a lot you would give to such a cause, please advise any Legionairre. We are planning to dedicate this home November 11, next and want to get busy at once. The type house we will erect will largely depend on the location.

J. L. Wees, the architect, has completed the plans and specifications for the Culbertson Memorial Tablet to be erected in the postoffice park. A figure in bronze sits with bowed head holding an extinguished torch in one hand and a wreath in the other. Tablets in bronze, bearing the names of those in whose honor the memorial has been erected appear below the figure. The base is of native granite. The memorial will face the corner of Church and Lamar avenue and be located about twenty feet from the flag pole toward the corner. The present plans call for the unveiling to be held on San Jacinto Day.

MODISH MITZI

Little Fashions That Are New

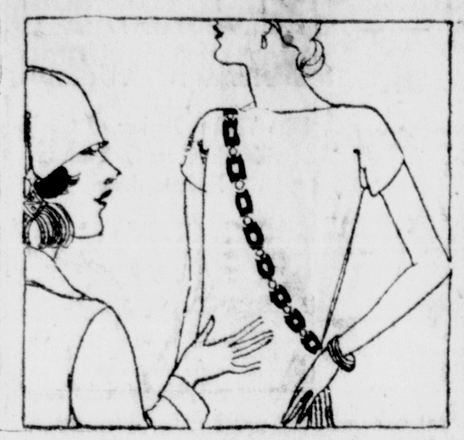

By Jay V. Jay

"It's not that there's really anything I need," thinks Mitzi dressed in her new ensemble suit and ready to sally out on a bright spring morning "only it such a nice day to go shopping!" Her hat deserves a word of praise for its ornament of painted galalith and tassel of black silk.

Among the many new trifles of jewelry Mitzi notices dozens of little rhinestone animals—glittering little pins which are used for hats, scarfs and on dresses and suits. Here is a galloping steed on a new hat of colored felt. It is one of many such.

Mitzi also notices a new bandolier chain that is swung from one shoulder to the low hipwaist-line of a frock. It is smart and attractive being made of gold and colored stones. Such an accessory can be used to smarten half a dozen different frocks.

Of course, Mitzi buys the new bracelet! It is really three bracelets wits slip and slide around each other and can't possibly be separated. They are of white gold, green gold and rose gold. Although Mitzi doesn't show it to you there is a ring to match and she will probably buy that, too.

LAST OF SERIES AT FIRST BAPTIST

Dr. Wright Gave Concluding one of the Echoes from Eden Series Sunday Night

There was excellent attendance at all the services of the First Baptist church Sunday and the sermon subjects and splendid musical were enjoyed.

Five hundred and eighty-two were present at the Sunday school hour and 180 young people were in attendance at the BYPU service.

The BYPU organization is being reorganized by departments and the new arrangement bids fair to be popular. The adult union was organized with twenty members, and there was a noticeable increase in attendance in all the unions.

The unified church service is being adopted and it, too, will in all probability prove to be popular. At the general assembly Dr. Wright presented the training class diplomas and seals and P. K. Browning led in an inspirational song service.

Special music for the day included a duet at the morning hour by Mrs. Herman Hicks and Kemp Johnson; and a beautiful rendition of "The Holy City" was given by Mrs. Herman Hicks at the evennig hour. Congregational singing, which always features the evening service, was led by Mr. Browning and old time songs such as "Where the Gates Swing Open Never," and "On Jordan's Stormy Banks" were sung.

The subject for the evening service was "Paradise Regained" and was the concluding sermon of a series on "Echoes from Eden" that have been given by Dr. Wright.

"For he loked for a city which hath a foundation, whose builder and maker is God," found in the tenth chapter of Hebrews, was the test of Dr. Wright's sermon, and by way of introduction Dr. Wright said, "Last we are to discuss Paradis found.' We commenced with Paradise, before it was lost through sin, and we close the series with Paradise regained through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ."

Abraham was used as a reference and he is spoken of as "the faithful." He left the land of his nativity and became a wonder; he knew not where he was going but he was faithful and obedient. He was a pilgrim—and so are you and I; we are pilgrims of Paradise in search of the way back to happiness.

No man can regain happiness until he passes t hrough New Jerusalem. We are all in search of happiness and as long as there is a shadow of doubt or a shadow of worry, happiness can never be regained.

In speaking of the regained Paradise or the reward that is promised us, which is heaven, Dr. Wright pictured the glories of the place in a vevy vivid manner.

There is going to be something unique about heaven; it's going to be a place without poverty; it's going to be a beautiful mansion, with golden streets and gates of pearl; a city wherein there is no temple, no night, and a city that the sunlight always illuminates.

We think our beautiful city of Paris is a wonderful place with its beautiful streets and trees, but it is nothing to compare with that celestial city that is built with a foundation whose maker and builder is God.

There will be no sin there and we will be forever and eternally safe. The devil will forever be banished and there will be no chance for sin to enter into our lives.

This series of sermons proved of great interest and benefit to all who attended them and there have been many expressions of appreciation and gratitude to Dr. Wright for them.

The Resurrection

Are the facts of the resurrection of Christ sufficiently authenticated to justify the faith of christendom in this eternally significant event? The Fundamentalists affirm and the Modernists deny. If you want to hear a profound discussion of this subject come to the First Baptist church tonight, where Judge W. F. Moore will sweep away every vestige of doubt from your mind and leave you with a luminous faith that will dispel the darkness from the valley and shadow of death. Eight o'clock is the hour, and the address will be introduced by the singing of some of the gospel songs of faith, led by P. K. Browning. If you want a faith that reaches out beyond the grave and laughs in the face of death do not miss this lecture.

WHAT'S THE USE?

What's the use having such crooked State highways, also county roads? Side rails to show us where the short turns in road are cost a lot of extra money. Extra miles have to be traveled by thousands of cars and wagons. What's the use to build a good system of dirt roads on the lowest ground and let all the farmers run their terrace ditches into them? It's perfectly natural to run the water to the lowest place. Move the roads to higher foundation (even if it is back of your residence.) Let Mr. Farmer use some other place to carry away his storm water. We have to have a dry roadbed if we travel them 365 days per year.

W. T. RIDLEY WAS FATALLY STRICKEN

Expired from Apoplexy While Seated at His Desk at the American National Bank

W. T. Ridley, president of the American National bank, died suddenly and unexpectedly at his desk in the bank a little before 6 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from a stroke of apoplexy. He was apparently as well and hearty as he ever was up to the time that he was stricken.

Just about ten minutes before his death he had dictated some correspondence to Miss Keel, his stenographer, who had left soon afterward, and all of the force had left for the day except the three bookkeeprs, Chas, Lee, Wm. Norwood and Marvin Keener.

Mr. Lee heard Mr. Ridley breathing very heavily and went to see what was the matter. He found him sitting in his chair leaning backward and spoke to him, but the latter did not recognize him or make any reply. He was unconscious.

The bookkeeper ran out to summon a doctor and found Dr. Fitzpatrick standing on the sidewalk. Dr. R. L. Lewis was also telephoned for. Before either of them could reach him he was dead.

The news of his death spread quickly around town and caused a great deal of sorrow among all the people, having had a wide acquaintance and everybody who knew him being his friend.

He was the only son of the late Capt. D. Ridley, who was a pioneer resident and a gallant Confederate soldier. He had lived all of his life in Lamar county, having been born at Sylvan September 30, 1873. He was connected with the banking business during his entire business career. He started in as an employe of the First National bank and when the American National was organized he became associated with it, and had been with it all the time since its organization.

He is survived by his wife and two daughters one of whom, Miss Randle Ridley, is a student at Ward-Belmont college at Nashville, Tenn., and the other, Mary Frances, is eight years of age.

Besides his family he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. P. B. Gibbons and Mrs. B. C. Duncan, both of Paris.

The funeral service will be held at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon at Central Presbyterian church, of which he was a member, and will be conducted by Rev. F. L. Wear, the pastor, assisted by Rev. O. T. Cooper, pastor of the First Methodist church.

Permanent roads are a good investment — not an expense

An Extra Gasoline Tax of from 6 to 20 Cents Per Gallon

Your gasoline bills run into real money.

But have you ever stopped to figure how much of this is in the form of an incredibly high gasoline tax?

Let's see what happens when you leave the Concrete Highway and take to a gravel or a dirt road.

Conclusive tests have proved that a gallon of gasoline will carry you only two thirds as far on a gravel road as on a Concrete Road. On a dirt road a gallon of gasoline will carry you only half as far as on Concrete.

With gasoline at twenty cents a gallon, you would thus pay a gasoline tax of more than 6 cents per gallon on the gravel road and 20 cents a gallon on the dirt road.

These are figures you can't get away from. You can prove them yourself.

And remember that every time you travel on either a dirt or a gravel road you also increase wear and tear on tires and run up your general repair bills.

Why continue to pay these high taxes and get nothing in return but the discomfort and inconvenience of unpaved roads and streets?

Let your local officials know you want an adequate system of Concrete Roads and Streets. They are just as willing to build them as you are anxious to get them.

But they must have your support.

AUTO THIEF TAKES CAR FROM PLAZA

Found Near Shady Grove Stripped of Everything That Could Be Removed

A five-passenger Ford touring car of the latest model belonging to Harry Nuckols of Blossom was stolen from the Plaza Monday night while he was attending the picture show in the city. He missed it between 10 and 11 o'clock and notified the officers, but they did not get any trace of it.

Tuesday morning early while Mrs. Elsie Essary, who lives at Shady Grove, was going along the road about a mile from home she noticed an abandoned auto in the woods near the side of the road and telephone Constable Pick Anderson of Pattonville.

The constable went to the place and when he saw the car he figured that it had been stolen and left there. He came on to Paris and learned at the sheriff's office that Harry Nuckols had missed a car.

He then notified the owner, who went to Shady Grove and identified the car. It had been entirely striped of everything that could be taken off except the front casings.

Constable Anderson found tracks by the side of it where another car had been jacked up and the casings transferred to it.

A pocket knife and some dice were found near the car that are supposed to have been unintentionally droped on the ground.

COTTON IS HIGHER DESPITE THE RAIN

Traders Found Other Reasons for Thinking the Price Was Too Low

(Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, March 17.—The cotton market opened irregularly higher in sympathy with firmer Liverpool cables than due. First trades showed gains of 8 to 13 points on near months but later positions gained only 3 to 4 points. As the weather map showed some rains in East Texas and heavy rains in the central and eastern belts and as the forecast was far more unsettled and showery in the West prices eased off under pressure of rather heavy selling.

The market developed a firmer tone as the morning advanced owing to buying by spot interests which absorbed the offerings of contracts. The advance was helped by a Manchester cable which stated that it was rumored that the Master Spinners' Federation will recommend increasing output with a view to reducing production costs.

The market continued to improve during the first part of the afternoon on continued covering by shorts and all active months made new highs with May at 25.54, July at 25.78 and October at 24.97, or 36 to 38 points up from the low of the morning. The advance was helped by advices from Western Texas wher it was reported hardly 25 per cent of the land had been plowed when ordinarily at this date all the area had been prepared. Later in the afternoon prices eased off 9 to 10 points.

Futures closed steady at net advances of 7 to 11 points.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Liquidation was renewed in the cotton market in today's early trading. The opening was steady at an advance of 12 points to a decline of 5 points, near months being nigher on relatively firm Liverpool cables. They soon weakened, however, and the general list sold off to net losses of 11 to 16 points, May declining to 25.19 and October to 24.94, new low ground for the movement.

There was Southern as well as local and Wall street selling promoted by reports of showers in East Texas and the unsettled tone of the stock market.

The early afternoon market was steadier on covering by recent seleirs which appeared to be influenced by reports of a better tone in the spot market and talk of a firmer technical position. May sold up to 25.53 and Oct. to 25.30, or 20 to 23 points net higher.

Futures closed steady at net advances of 4 to 17 points.

DR. MARTIN'S OFFICE DAMAGED BY EXPLOSION

The explosion of an oil heater in the office of Dr. C. B. Martin, colored, at the corner of Twenty-first and Booth streets at 9:45 o'clock Tuesday morning caused considerable damage.

The front part of the office was gutted and the flames burst through a window and scorched the outside wall of his residence, which was built nearly against it, they being only about two feet apart.

There was slight damage to the furniture in the residence, but the greatest loss was in the burning of his books and some instruments in the office. He was in the office when the stove exploded and was so close to it that his hair was singed.

There was some insurance on the house, but none on the contents.

Claud Woodruff and daughter, Miss Eula formerly of Howland, who have been visiting friends in Paris, left Tuesday for their home at Wellington.

BABY CLINIC AND BAKING CONTESTS

Features of Pure Food Show Under Methodist Ladies Auspices Next Week

Plans for the Pure Food Food Show under the auspices of the ladies of the First Methodist church, which will be held in the former Perkins' location on the west side of the plaza next week, are rapidly nearing completion, and the details of the various features are being completed.

The usual method of awarding prizes for the most popular boy and girl at the baby show will be followed by voting, and the merchants are donating the prizes for this purpose. However, from 2 to 4 o'clock each afternoon, the city physician and Miss Thomas, the Aikin hospital superintendent, will have charge of an examining clinic to weigh and measure the children and advise the parents as to the treatment if any is necessary. An additional prize will be given at the end of the week for the most nearly perfect baby entered during the week.

These are the ages for successive days at the baby show:

Tuesday—Six months to one year.
Wednesday: One year.
Thursday: Two years.
Friday. Three years.
Saturday: Four years.

For further information, phone Miss Nora Sumner, 1058.

The baking contests will be unusually interesting and conducted along slightly different lines from the usual procedure. Any flour may be used, except on the days specified.

The prizes will be awarded on these days for the following named items:

Tuesday: Pound cake.
Wednesday: Layer cake.
Thursday: Angel food cake.
Friday: Cake made from Gold Leaf Flour, prizes by H. L. Campbell, distributor.
Saturday: Loaf cake, angel food, bread from Paris Special Flour, prizes by the Paris Milling Company.

PARK LANDSCAPE FULL OF ROOKIES

Aspirants for Places on Regular Teams Are Going Through Paces

With Manager Tullos and his gang of huskies working out from 10 to 1, and Snapp's Okmulgee Drillers occupying the playing field from 1 to 3, the landscape at the ball park is all cluttered up with perspiring athletes, each of whom cherishes an ambition to become regularly attached to the payroll of one of the two clubs.

The three hours sessions that Manager Tullos is putting his hopefuls through is rapidly rounding them into some semblance of shape, as the players are gradually shedding the winter's accumulation of excess baggage and getting into playing trim. Every man is put through his daily paces, and made to hit the ball in more ways than one. Tullos is not a hard task master, but he does insist that the men who are drawing their daily eats and flops from the local club give him their best.

The managerial ax swung yesterday and three players were lopped off the local roster, the three being Daniels, Forgason and Black. The pruning process having started, others will follow. However, Tullos is giving every man a chance to show something, but insists that he must have that "something" in order to be carried on the pay roll.

After lamping the players in action it is the unanimous verdict of the fans that the club right now is much stronger than that of last season. They are all youngsters, but some of them show real ability. Of the new men the two Californians that accompanied that other native son, Bills, to Paris, are creating a decidely favorable impression. These two youngsters field and hit that apple like real ball players, and will undoubtedly make the grade if they continue their impressive work.

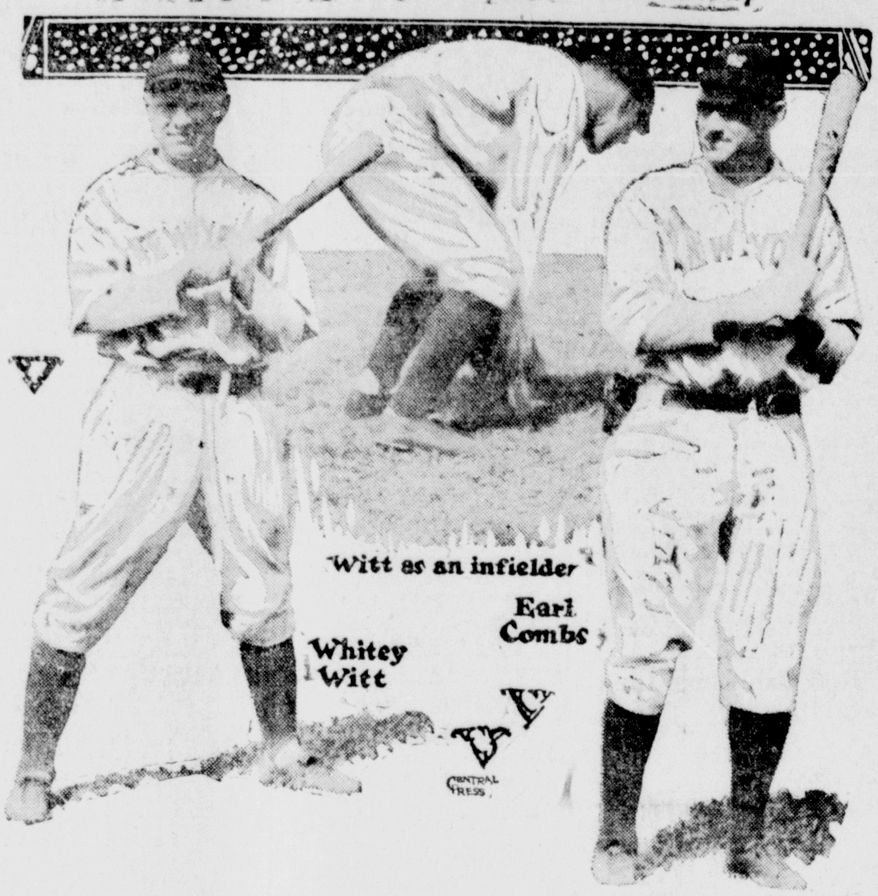

Bills, who sponsored these youngsters, wrote that they would burn up the league if given the chance, and they will be given every opportunity to make good on the prediction. Bills is in fine shape and is hustling the same as the rookies.

Teen Gallegos, the Walloping Wop, is looked for today, while the other few absentees are also expected. The outfield will be built around the Walloper from Albuquerque, and if two more players of his calibre can be secured or developed, the outfield is all set. Ner will be of great help to the young twirlers, and his big bat will also be a factor in winning many ball games.

E. Snapp's men are slow about reporting, up to Wednesday only twelve of the twenty or more having shown up. Snapp is not bothered about that however, as he has no holdouts with the possible exception of Wilcey Moore, and he is not grieving over the defection of that hurler. Moore is a good pitcher, but Snapp has always managed to develop some good hurling talent, and expects to do the same thing this year.

With their daily workouts and Saturday's game to put them on edge the Drillers and the North Stars should be in fine shape to entertain the East Texas league magnates when they meet here Sunday. Every town in the league will be represented, and perhaps many of the cities will have several representatives. The meeting will be presided oved by President Crosby, assisted by Vice President Tom Fisher. The Chamber of Commerce will provide the dinner for the visitors and the Drillers and North Stars the ball games. The magnates are expected to and doubtless will, provide their own excitement. Anyway, Paris will be pleased to act as host to them and to show them not only a good time but a real city.

Where Will Mr. Witt Land in Yankee Lineup?

There's a merry little battle on at the New York Yankees' training camp for the privilege of being the regular center fielder. Whitey Witt was the regular center gardener until young Earl Combs challenged his right to the title. Now both are after the job and Mr. Nick Cullop may be a contender. If Witt loses out in the outfield he may get a chance to help Everett Scott at short. So

Such popularity must be deserved

THE "man-in-the-street," the "man-in-the-limousine"—men in all walks of life, laugh with Bud Fisher. He draws more smiles, perhaps, than any other cartoonist in America.

Depend upon it, the public recognizes the real thing—whether it's cartoons or cigarettes.

Witness the sustained popularity of Chesterfield cigarettes. Here again men have found the real thing, in better tobaccos, and in richer, milder, more satisfying taste.

HENDRICKS SAYS PITCHERS GREAT

Manager of Reds Claims Hurlers Are Best Staff in the League

(Associated Press)

ORLANDO, Fla., March 17.—Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati National League baseball club, believes that he has the greatest pitching staff in his circuit and that the Reds will finish in third place or higher.

"A year ago this time there were dark days in the Reds' training camp," he said today. "It was then that Pat Moran died. Cincinnati has been fed up on a championship ball club that it did not have. This is no alibi. While the team suffered terribly from illness and injury yet it did not have the ability to finish higher than it did. It was aging—that team—lack of speed costs many close games.

"Now we have added speed. The morale is higher. The spirit is better. No club has a chance to get anywhere without spirit. It is my belief that it is not necessary to have an all-star cast to win if you have the spirit on your team.

"In Zitman, the young outfielder purchased from Newark, Dressen bought from St. Paul and Critz, who started for us last year, we have started right in getting youth and speed on the club.

"The death of our field captain, Jake Daubert, was a great loss. We are not experimenting with Bressler at first base as the public thinks. I believe Bressler will fill the bill better than any busher we could buy. My scouts and I combed the market for a first sacker and the only acceptable man we found was Neun. But Detroit already had him. We tried to get him but could not do so.

"Our man Critz and Wright of the Pirates, were the oustanding stars of last year, and Critz outhit Wright, stole more bases than the Pirate star. He is a fixture at second base for us.

"Dressen comes as the most heralded of our rookies. He hit .350 in the American association last year. He has made a good impression here by his fine, fast work and his willing and aggressive disposition. Whether he will have a regular berth on the team is for the training trip to determine.

"I believe I have the best pitching staff in the league. Mays showed the goods last year, Luque, the Cuban, found friends at home too kind. He was a hero on the Island, you know, after his great record of 1923. He had a bad season last year. He has learned his lesson and I expect him to go well this year.

"Rixey had a bad knee last spring and was of no use to the team for a month. He is in grand shape this spring. So is Tom Sheehan. Pete Donohue is sure to have a great season as he is heavier and stronger than ever before. Dibut, the other Cuban, is a problem. I would not like to pass on him yet. Jackie May reported in better condition than I have ever seen him.

"I believe Cincinnati will be in the race all season and run 1-2-3 to the finish. We have nine infielders, eight of whom are sure big league class. We need another right hand hitting outfielder and will get one if we possibly can."
